in villages where they have no relations or members of their community, and that if even acting men are appointed in their places, they try to evade this rule on account of similar difficulties. In the circumstances the Revenue Commissioner recommends a modification of the rule referred to above in order to enable the Deputy Commissioners in deserving cases to permit Shanbhogs to reside in villages even outside the hobli or taluk in which their charges are situated, the three mile limit however being retained. As the change proposed is reasonable, Government accept the recommendation of the Revenue Commissioner and direct that Note I to para 66 of Revenue Manual, Vol. I, be modified as follows:—

"In all such cases, the Deputy Commissioner may permit the Patel or Shanbhog to reside in some other village, provided the village selected for residence is situated at a distance of not more than 3 miles from the village or any one of the villages comprised in the firka as the case may be."
